WHAT WE'VE DONE IN '61

As our school year is drawing to a close, we invite you to take a look at what we've done in '61. In a rural community, our school is meeting our growing community and student body needs with additional classrooms and a larger faculty this year.

As we wander down the halls we hear . . . Was your test hard? . . . What's my locker combination? . . . Is that the bell already? From the time students entered the busses to the time that late afternoon bell reminded them another day was finished, they faced the mixed experiences of work and fun. We fulfilled our main purpose for being here, to study under the guidance of experienced teachers. Students broadened their interests and learned to live with others through clubs, sports, and activities.

All the experiences you will find bound into this book, we hope you will find to be a part of . . .

Fads, Fashions, Our Days

FROM SEPTEMBER till May, Central's fifteen bus system faithfully carried its passengers twice a day on its mission. There was no partiality shown for first graders as well as seniors had bus transportation.

LEFT: One of the first meeting places for boys, girls, or mixed groups was the lockers. Here everyone learned of the news they had missed, since last seeing each other.

ABOVE: The Monroe Methodist Church, which many students attend, was the scene of the Sunshine induction of new members. Above freshman girls are receiving lighted candles and the pledge.

LEFT: In order to kick off the basketball season and get everyone in the "spirit," the pep club sponsored a pep rally to which all classes and clubs made floats. The parade was followed by the first 1960-61 pep session.

and Fun, Fill at A. C. H. S.

Day by day it seemed that there was something regular about a day at Central; but every day contained a new challenge and the conversation was always left unfinished until the next meeting. Sometimes music or athletic students got a head start on the rest by meeting at 7:30 in the morning or staying after school, this always keeps us alert.

Then there were fads and fashions. Many lockers told the tale of favorites in the movie world or one might even find a book there that was over due in the library or that missing assignment.

Besides belonging to school organizations and local church groups, 4-H, or civic clubs, many upperclassmen held part-time jobs which helps with extra spending money or goes toward that college education or the sum in the bank for something big.

ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS students and faculty gathered in the gymnasium and were presented with various types of programs. They varied from chapel services to science, musical, animal, and magician programs.

THE EXCITEMENT of the November aroused great interest both in junior high and high school. Mr. Brown's seventh and eighth graders went all out for campaign material and literally papered their room with articles and posters. The upper six grades participated in voting for their favorite candidates on the appointed day.

A Time for Fun, a Time Seriousness at Central

LEFT: Serving eight hundred students every day could present some real problems, but our line, although it may appear to be rather long, moves at a commendable rate.

RIGHT: When the tasty food is set before us, there isn't much time left for talking until the last morsel is finally gone.

LOCATED IN the foier of the gym twice a week is the candy counter. Here students may select their favorite candy bars and the profits go to different organizations at different intervals.

THE HIGH SCHOOL hall intersection is usually the scene of ticket sales, or collecting of funds for an organization expense. This also affords a refuge for a controversial subject.

ONE OF THE first social occasions of the year occurred when the Sunshine Society formally inducted its new members into the organization. Above are Mrs. Chalmer Barkley speaker for the event; officers Rose Schlickman, Judy Arnold, Onalee Barkley, Barbara Carver, Karen Rich; and sponsors Mrs. Stucky and Mrs. Neilson.

LEFT: Class parties afford an extra time for Centralites to meet together. Classes can meet twice a year and juniors and seniors both sponsor school skating parties.

RIGHT: What are parties without food? It is not necessary to ask this at a Central gathering for there is always more to eat than anyone can manage.

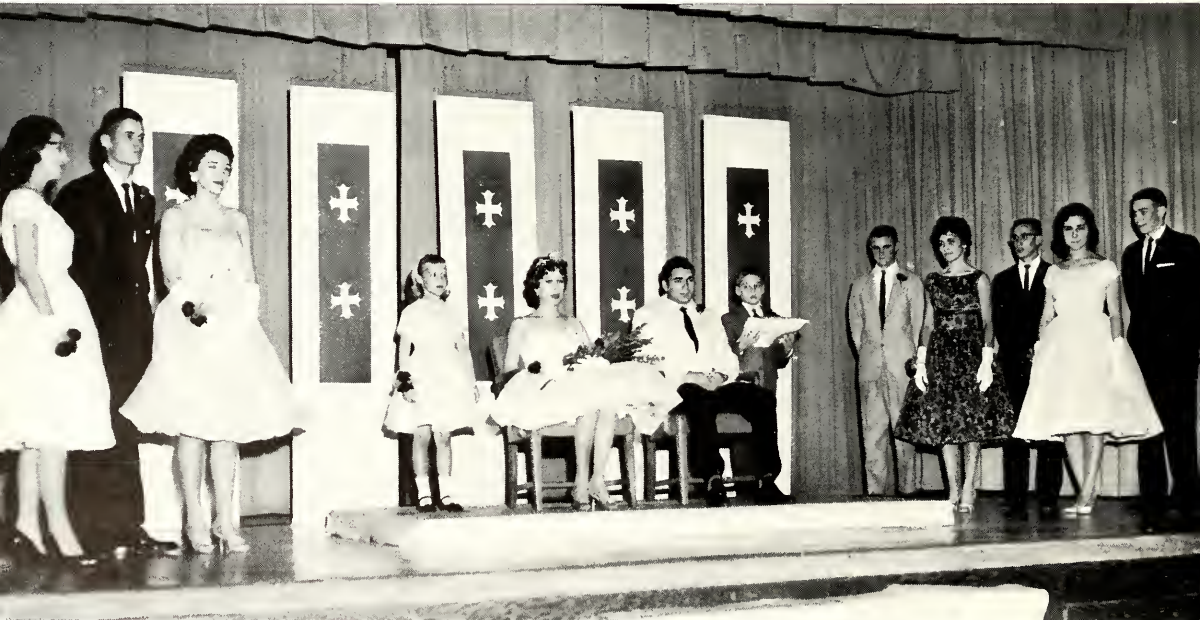

THE TRADITIONAL "Sweetheart of Central High" was sung by Althea Wulliman, Annie Singleton, Karen Rich and Sandra Mattax.

At the half of the Adams Central-Hartford game the lights dimmed and the curtains of the stage opened revealing the throne, and red and white decorations that would soon receive a new King and Queen.

Top guarded secret of the year is the result of the final tabulations in which the student body elects the Cen-Trails' royalty. The five couples were preceded down the gym floor by two first grade students who served as crown and flower bearers. When the court reached their places, the announcement was made that Jerry Hirschy and Onalee Barkley had been chosen to reign. As Onalee knelt, King Jerry crowned the new queen and they took their appointed places on Central's throne.

Experiments and Study Hours for Chem

Collecting insects and leaves and dissecting fish and grasshoppers gave the freshman biology students a new knowledge of the structure and characteristics of living substances. Under the direction of Mr. Green, they studied the lives of various plants, animals, and human beings for their daily assignments.

Chemistry classes were larger than ever before, this year. Under the instruction of Mr. Allspaw, the forty-four students performed many basic experiments with gases and acids, learning laboratory techniques in the weekly lab assignments. Learning to formulate and balance equations was another assignment undertaken by the students. This course is beneficial to future engineers, nurses, pharmacists, and doctors. Science majors were encouraged to enter projects in the Science Fair and Science Talent Search.

ELECTROLYSIS OF water, which is the separation of water into its elements, hydrogen and oxygen, is performed by Linda Hirschy, Dan Michaels, Rosemary Schlickman, and Richard Beard.

Numbers Provide Many and Math Students

Available mathematical courses this year included general math, under Mr. Miller, algebra I and II, and geometry taught by Miss Beavers.

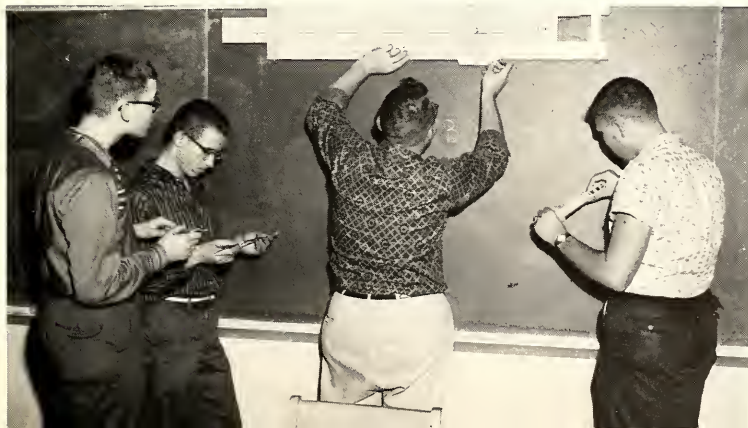

Some freshmen found new experiences by working equations in algebra, while others met their challenge in general math.

Sophomores increased their ability to reason through the elective course, geometry. Proving theorems, angles, and comparing original drawings tested the creative ability of these students.

Juniors and seniors enlarged their mathematical background through algebra II, preparing them for college.

CONTRADICTORY TO the slogan on the blackboard, it seems that a lot of people use geometry; as the picture demonstrates.

DON GERMAN, Duane Arnold, and Roy Mazelin compare their slide rules with the large new slide rule, purchased by the school, worked by Jerry Frantz.

EDITH DENNISON, in first year Latin, points out some interesting relics of Ancient Rome to Don Decker and Kathy Michaels.

Language and Social Studies Help to Better

Is Latin a dead language? Not to the students who are taking it under the direction of Mrs. Stucky. Discovering that many of our English words are derived from Latin is only one of the benefits obtained from this language.

Learning to express your ideas well is very important and the English classes, directed by Mr. Shoup, Mr. Sprunger, Mrs. Stucky, strive to help students in this respect. English classes attempt to give students experiences in enlarging their vocabularies through spelling, speaking, and reading.

Most of the students enrolled in both of Central's language departments agree that Latin and English go hand in hand.

KENNETH REED illustrates the three main items in his speech to the senior English class.

History is a ceaselessly flowing stream, ever widening and deepening its course. Central's history department is divided into two groups, world history, studied by sophomores and taught by Mr. Haggard, and American history, taught by Mr. Anderson and studied by juniors.

Government and sociology gave seniors a better understanding of our government and social problems. Mr. Shoup and Mr. Anderson instructed these courses.

"The American Observer," a weekly current events newspaper, kept social studies classes alert on the happenings around the world. Debates were also held previous to the November election in which students voiced their opinions for their favorite candidates.

JERRY ROWDON and Judy Arnold trace the Louis-Clark expedition as Marilyn Stucky looks on.

Community Relations

COMPARING NOTES on current events studies, in the American Observer, are Arvilla Smith, Gene Wolfe, and Janet Beer.

STUDENTS WERE able to voice their political opinions through debates held in social studies classes.

Commercial-Vocational

There are many of Central's students enrolled in the business courses which our school offers. The courses include typing with Mr. Hoopingarner as instructor, bookkeeping with Mr. Bryan, and office practice and shorthand with Mrs. Archbold. Through their preparation in these subjects, students gain the knowledge that will aid them after graduation.

The main aims of these courses are working correctly with figures, typing quickly and correctly, and taking dictation at a more rapid speed.

JANICE RINGGER and Sue Strickler team up to avoid mistakes in bookkeeping.

THE MANY aspects of an office job are reviewed by girls enrolled in secretarial training.

TYPING STUDENTS await the "go" signal, then are off to achieve new goals of speed and accuracy.

Studies Prepare

Centralites

The modern student finds it necessary to know more about homemaking, woodworking, farming, and electricity.

While girls learn to cook, sew, and care for children in home economics, boys learn how to become better farmers, do jobs easier, run machines more safely, and build handy pieces of furniture in industrial arts and agriculture.

Mrs. Nielsen, Mr. Watson, and Mr. Collier devote their time to teaching these classes.

IMPROVING FARM soil is made easier by testing as is demonstrated by Alvin Habegger to Dick Schwartz and Bob Christner.

ECONOMY, a must for the practical homemaker, is achieved by saving on her family's clothes, as senior girls learn in home economics.

METAL WORK fundamentals apply to many things, as boys in industrial arts classes discovered. Junior boys are pictured above cutting steel.

Bodies and Minds Are Developed in Music and art are two talents that are only perfected through practice and repetition.

In art classes, Mr. Feasel helps grade students to express themselves through paintings, drawings, paper sculpture, and ceramics. Students involved in art helped to keep our halls and rooms decorated with the seasons.

Grade music classes alternated their sessions with singing, listening to records, watching films, and preparing for performances. Highlights for the year were the December PTA Christmas Pageant and spring operetta, directed by Mr. Leon Gerig.

MR. FEASEL supervises as Karen Cauble, Bob Rodich, Alvin Habegger, and Linda Pageler prepare ceramics for the kiln.

GRADE STUDENTS, under the direction of Mr. Leon Gerig, meet twice a week for music appreciation classes.

Classes Meeting Our Varied Interests

Physical education classes play an active part in the lives of freshmen and sophomores. Not only do they learn the rules of many games but they also learn the rules of good sportsmanship. In these classes Mrs. Archbold and Mr. Miller teach students to appreciate basketball, baseball, calisthenics, and tumbling. During the noon hour, upperclassmen participate in intramurals.

The right to drive a car is a great privilege obtained only by having the know-how to operate a car and know the car's proper function. Mr. Bryan teaches Central's beginning drivers the safety rules involved in driving.

CREATIVE BUILDING is a part of freshman physical education classes.

JANE JENNINGS, Susan Frank, Stanley Biberstein, and Ron Myers learn from Mr. Bryan the proper procedure in changing a tire.

FRIENDS

Surrounded by new achievements in speed power, and automation--people are still people. Their joys and sorrows
--hopes and disappointments--ambition and indolence are a constant reminder that they share a common experience.

Students from the first year to the "mighty" seniors find the need for understanding teachers and guidance directors who will take the time to help them make that first step and keep on climbing. These are . . .

This Is Our Year — '61

For the past eleven years, we, the seniors, have looked to the year of 1961 with great anticipation. Now that it is here we pause to recall the numerous exciting events that we experienced. We are proud to recall that we are the first graduating class to attend Adams Central all twelve years.

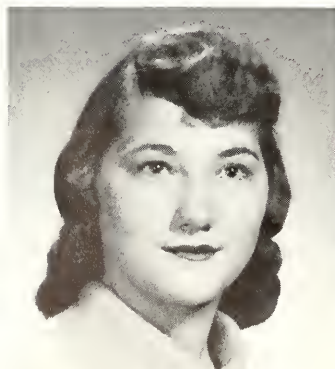

As sixth graders we moved to the new school building. In 1957 we entered high school as "green freshmen," spending a year of bowing to and carrying books for those mighty seniors.

During our junior year we began working toward our senior trip. We sold magazines, helped the seniors sell concessions at the county tourney, and held a skating party at the Roller Dome in Fort Wayne.

Then, all too soon, it was here--1961, our year at Central. As seniors we spent an extremely busy year. There were scholarship tests, and final examinations. Selling concessions, magazines, and Christmas cards brought the realization that our trip to Washington, D.C., was soon to be taken from the dream stage and our luggage would be packed for the bus trip.

Now that the big day, May 22, 1961, is behind us and the many happy and sorrowful days at Adams Central are behind us, we realize that whether the future holds college, marriage, service, or factory or office work, the foundation was laid by the principal, teachers, and fellow students who lasted through our trying experiences.

THE RECREATIONAL HOURS of Central's younger students are filled with directed playground activities and gym play in bad weather. Here third, fourth, and fifth graders are putting their enthusiasm to use during the noon hour.

ORGANIZATIONS

One of the most important advantages of our organizations and clubs is the fact that we can take a hand in leadership. Almost every member of any club is called upon at one time or another to pitch-in-and-help support a drive or simply act on a committee for one of the monthly meetings. This being the case, we see that it isn't what we get from something but what we put into it that really counts. This is . . . WHAT OUR ORGANIZATIONS HAVE DONE IN '61.

Gazette and Cen-Trails Staffs Record

This year the Greyhound Gazette received a remodeling. Instead of the former four page bi-weekly students received a two page weekly.

Karen Brandt and Maran Zimmerman brought hints and helps back from a two-week session at Indiana University which aided in the production and efficiency of the paper. Staff members gathered information from all aspects of school life which Editor Sandy Strickler and Sponsors Mrs. Archbold and Mr. Sprunger pooled to increase the paper's quality.

The staff was honored in the spring with an awards banquet, where members received pins for their effort throughout the year.

GAZETTE EDITORS: Mr. Sprunger, O. Barkley, Mrs. Archbold, C. Yake, J. Ringger, S. Strickler.

THE ARRIVAL of yearbooks is one of the biggest events of the year. For days the halls have been buzzing with the excitement of "our yearbook." Everywhere within the realm of the eye, students are signing names and looking closely at the many, many pictures.

For the Cen-Trails staff the excitement is as great, but in a different respect. First they held their breath as all kinds of thoughts ran through their minds. Then they opened the cover to see how the many hours of planning and creating had turned out. They couldn't help thinking of the Journalism Institute the editors attended that helped plan the dummy. Yes, the dummy that had finally come to life after working with the 3-R forms, copy, and pictures that had to be adjusted to the space; before the deadline could be met.

SETTING FORTH the plan book on the 3-R forms are Joye Yoder, Business Mgr., Mr. Shoup, Sponsor, Rosalyn Mishler, Editor, and Ron Owens, Asst. Editor.

The Sunshine Society, composed of 108 members, was under the direction of Mrs. Stucky and Mrs. Nielsen. One of its many activities last fall was holding the District Two Convention, which 450 girls from the district attended. Other social events were "Daddy Date Night," "Christmas in Outer Space," an "Indoor Track Meet," and "Stairway to the Stars Banquet." Poinsettias were delivered to shut-ins the evening of the Christmas Party and dollar bills were given to the Riley Fund instead of holding a gift exchange.

Each girl selected an "ideal lady" with whom she exchanged gifts on various occasions throughout the year. She remained a secret to the lady until the Spring Tea. In February, valentine favors were sent to the residents of the County Home and a short entertainment program was given for the residents. To raise money the girls sold sweatshirts and candy.

JOYCE HAGGARD and Judy Royer, wearing sweat-shirts the society sold, examine the money tree covered with dollar bills contributed by the girls at Christmas.

“With Love in My Heart”

SUNSHINE SOARS IN SIXTY was the theme for 1960-61 and convention attenders were greeted by our "special" friends.

SOME WEIRD looking spacegirls attended the Christmas party to enjoy Sunshine hospitality.

MONTHLY MEETINGS GAVE the high school girls an added time to be together and enjoy each others company.

ONE SPACEWOMAN ventured a closer look at Central's living tree, and decided to take the idea back to space.

Future Farmers Given First

The Adams Central FFA, which has been organized for eleven years, has thirty-five active members in the Chapter this year, with Mr. Martin Watson, sponsor.

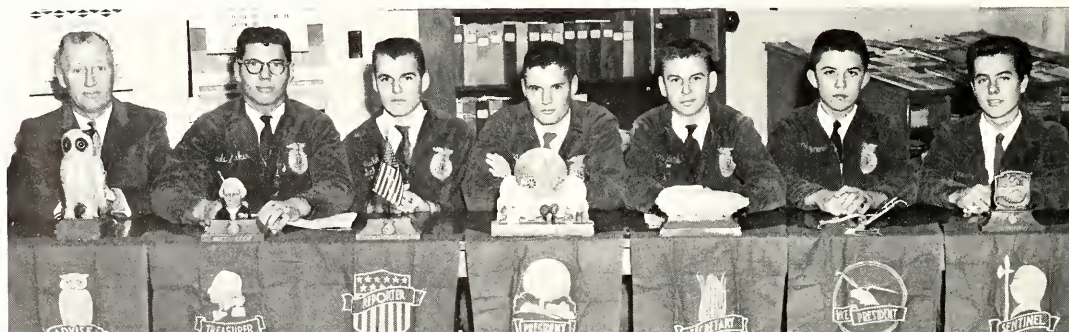

Besides the general class work of studying farm management, soils, and crops, the chapter took part in the following activities: land, livestock, dairy, forestry, and entomology judging contests, and building gates, hog troughs, and fence, which was used for behind the school.

This year FFA welcomed the Sunshine Society to help conduct the annual Thanksgiving program.

Sixteen baskets of food, contributed by students, were personally delivered to the more unfortunate families of the school district.

Social activities included basketball and softball games, swimming parties, and hockey games. The highlight of the year was the annual banquet where awards were given to outstanding workers of the Chapter.

There were four boys who applied for the State Farmer Degree and one, for the National Farmer Degree.

Character, Service, Leadership, and Scholarship are the qualities represented in the National Honor Society's emblem. The organization's purpose is to encourage development of character in students, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote leadership, and to create enthusiasm for scholarship. The society has been in active participation at Central since May of 1958.

Elected members must maintain a B average, and are eligible for probation at any time.

Thirteen new members, seven seniors and six juniors, were added this year to the remaining six members from last year. The new members were notified in September and were formally inducted at the November PTA meeting.

Central's Youth For Christ Club, organized two years ago, is experiencing a new growth. Interest is adding in this organization which has as its goal the provision of a better religious background for the school and binding Christian Fellowship and understanding among the students.

Each county club has a quiz team which participates with each other in competition, at county wide rallies.

Of interest at the bi-weekly Thursday evening meetings were guest speakers, singspirations, and films directed to the high school youth of today.

Trying to better their knowledge of the camera and photography equipment is the purpose of the photography club. Although they did not have a regular meeting time, the members of this organization experimented on their own with different types of film, paper and cameras. They developed their own pictures in the school darkroom and noticed what effect the types of paper they used, their camera setting and conditions about them had on the quality of picture they received.

Enlarging a small picture or reducing a large picture were some of their objectives. On hand at any time to help solve their problems or offer suggestions for improvements was their sponsor Mr. Feasel. By working together they have improved not only their ability to take a good quality picture but to produce an effective development also.

County's Largest Band Delights

DRUM MAJOR: Ron Owens.

Speaking for the instrumental music education at Adams Central are six bands under the direction of Don Gerig. They are Rhythm Band, Flutophone Band, Beginners Band, Intermediate Band, Junior Band, and Senior Band. This year, there were seventy-eight members in the Senior Band which is the largest Adams County has ever produced.

Ron Owens, Central's first drum major, and Sharon Mattax, feature twirler, headed the marching band which participated in numerous summer parades and contests and, also, marched at four home basketball games.

The "Terrific Two-Dozen," which is organized to "pep up" the fans at basketball games was led by Mr. Gerig and Rosalyn Mishler, assistant director.

For the third year, select students met bi-weekly, the second semester, with the key members of other county bands to form the Adams County Honor Band. They made a tour of schools in the spring and will participate in the county music festival in the fall.

It is hoped the increasing interest in instrumental music will be promoted and aid in increasing the community's musical interest.

Robed Music Vocal Group

The choir, directed by Mr. Leon Gerig, had a busy schedule this year. The first semester the high school choir with approximately 94 members, participated in the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, and also PTA meetings. They met regularly on Mondays and Tuesdays and as the need arose met before school.

The second semester approximately 60 of the better singers formed the concert choir which sang in churches, at special programs and participated in the Spring Concert. Robes of scarlet and white stoles, purchased last year by the Music Loyalty Club added to the appearance of this group.

The junior choir composed of seventh and eighth graders met weekly during the year. Forty-five eighth graders and fifty-five eighth graders blended their voices in this organization.

The honor choir, made up of select voices from all the county schools, has approximately sixty members, sixteen from Central. These students met bi-weekly the first semester and sang in the County Music Festival.

SPORTS

Like other Hooiser schools, sports at Central center about basketball. But there are also other sports our students are participants in.

From baseball and cross country in the fall until track is completed in the spring, our athletes are keeping themselves in "shape."

The most important part of this area of school is not only developing a spirit of competition, but building stronger youth for tomorrow. This is . . .

Cagers Work Hard to Better Record

Central's season record didn't go very far in showing the strength of the greyhounds when they ended the season play with a 4 win, 14 loss record. The quintet was put through its paces again this year by coach Amzie Miller. This was Central's rebuilding year, as only three lettermen returned.

In spite of their handicaps, the spirited courtmen strove to overcome their difficulties and played some excellent tournament ball.

Trophies were awarded to Ed Hirschy on assists, Claude Striker for rebounds, and Loyde Knittle for free throws.

Returning next year will be five juniors and two sophomores, while Central will lose five seniors.

IT'S IN the air and time will tell if the Seconds will add two points to their score.

Seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh grade boys who are building themselves toward a position on the varsity squad participated in either junior high, freshman, or second team basketball.

The second team, coached by Mr. Miller, played 19 regular season games, winning seven and losing twelve.

Freshman basketball was under the direction of Mr. Bryan this year and these boys hustled their way to six victories against twelve defeats.

Mr. Hoppingarner directed and coached the seventh and eighth graders to nine wins and these teams lost a combined seventeen games.

The competitive spirit which grows in these young men is one which is building a stronger youth both physically and mentally.

Spring, Summer, and Fall Sports

CLAUDE STRIKER, senior veteran, prepares to knock the pitch to him into center field.

Central's cindermen came through with a shining record this year. Facing some forty-four opposing teams, they were defeated by only three. In view of their many victories, they claimed the titles of county and conference champs. Although Central didn't have an amount of outstanding stars, they had what track men call "depth." In the conference meet, the team didn't openly win one first place, but captured their points through second, third, and fourth places.

The A.C. harriers, this year under the direction of Ed Bryan, had an "average" season. The spirit was high and enthusiasm great as thirteen of the runners earned a letter. To earn a letter, a hill-and-dale man must tour the grinding two-mile course in eleven minutes, thirty seconds, or less.

The sluggers finished reasonably well with a slightly less than "500" season last fall. The fielding was strong, but the team found themselves faced with a shortage of pitchers. Nevertheless, they did the best with what they had at their advantage, and made up for part of this handicap.

AFTER THE sectional, intramurals featured volleyball for both high school boys and girls.

GIRLS INTRAMURAL, under the direction of Mrs. Archbold, met once a week on Fridays.

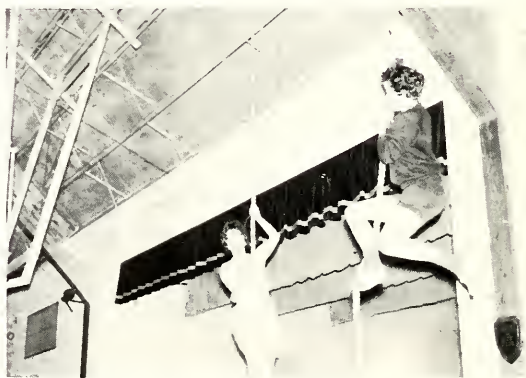

SAM HEYERLY demonstrates his power to raise his team's score by spiking the ball.

Intramurals are looked forward eagerly to by many students at Central. During the first part of the year, the noon hour feature was basketball, while after sectional tournament time the tide turned toward first volleyball and foul shooting contests, then ping pong--for boys, girls, doubles, and mixed doubles, and badmitton.

Since juniors and seniors do not participate in physical education, this gave them a chance to get some exercise between morning and afternoon classes.

The boys used the gym on noons, Monday through Thursday, and the girls on Friday.

Noon Hour Attention Is on Intramurals

WHILE THEY WAITED their turn as substitutes these sophomore girls tried some races and contests on ropes.

Joyce,
Remember the night
we camped out (ha!) in the car and you got sick.
The night some guys through those bottles in your yard and we got so scared. That week and at Winnebago Lake and you wouldn't hit a cricle. Good Luck next year and please come see me sometime.
Karen

Tom, I'm ill man, I'm but I'm not stay and are home and net and all the night
the night
the night

Gypse
I don't know what anybody else wrote in here.
because I didn't read it. But I suppose they told you we're all had a ball while we were running around together. And this is true. Thanks all you done to get Jim and I back together. You'll know some day what I mean, or maybe you already do.
Remember the party I had in my barn what Jim told we're going to have another one this year without Gypse. Somehow these kind I write. I've always had a lot of fun when I was around you Gypse, but this year you were more than just somebody to laugh with. I found it easy to talk to you about my problems or should I say problem. Really I think it was because we had a similar problem. Thanks for everything Gypse. And if I can help you with your problem. Thanks another party or anything let me know.
So if you stop writing I have English to do. See you at the class party tonight
if not. Thanks
